6-Point Plan Includes Economic Aid

UNITED NATIONS-The UN General Assemadjourned this morning after hearing addresses President Eisenhower and Soviet Foreign by President Eisenhower and Soviet Minister Gromyko. It will meet again Thursday at 7.30 a.m. (PDT).

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — President Eisenhower today set forth a six-point plan for building Middle East peace—including swift creation of an emergency UN police force and an international economic development program.

Opening the General Assembly's special emergency debate, the president pledged that United States troops would be "totally withdrawn" from Lebanon "whenever this is requested by the duly constituted government of Lebanon or whenever, through action by the United Nations or otherwise, Lebanon is no longer exposed to the critical departs". original danger."

At the same time he accused Russia, without naming the Soviet Union, of stirring up war hysteria with tactics of "ballistic blackmail."

of "ballistic blackmail."

Eisenhower said his program would promote "a true Arab renaissance." The alternative, he asserted is:

"The danger that nations under aggressive leadership will seek to exploit man's horror of war by confronting the nations, particularly small nations, with an apparent choice between supine surrender, or war."

Again without naming Moscow, Eisenhower compared the Kremlin's conduct with someone who cries "fire" in a crowded assembly.

The President's proposed six points:

1. A standby United Nations peace force.

In a dand a technical assistance program financed jointly by the program farabet states, the United States and other countries, program do ther countries, and other countries, program do ther countries, and other countries, and other Calling world attention to the tense situation in that tiny kingdom. Eisenhower warned that "indirect aggression discernible in Jordan may lead to conflicts endangering the peace." He did not fix the blame for this, but said consequences of a farreaching nature could result. Eisenhower proposed fast General Assembly action on the parts of his program dealing with the peace force. Lebanon, Jordsan and the curbing of subversive propaganda. The regional economic development plan and arms control he left for handling through other UN machinery.

On the regional development plan, he said:

"Should the Arab states acree of the United States would also be prepared to support it with their own resources, the United States would also be prepared to support it."

With Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on hand, Eisenhower strongly defended his decision to rush U.S. troops with the peace force, Lebanon, Jordsan and the curbing of subversive propaganda. The regional economic development plan and arms control he left for handling through other UN machinery.

On the regional development plan, he said:

Winds fanned it along until darkness, but due to heavy undergrowth the fire continued creeping to about double its size through the night.

A call for 40 volunteer fallers and buckers with their own equipment was made by the forest service this morning.

They were to be used in cleanup at the lower end of the fire and to clear heavier timber from the path of bulldozers, which still had a half mile of break to complete at fire brea. 10.30 a.m.

A Vote for Trade

THE EISENHOWER GOVERN-ment and the cause of world trade have won an historic victory in Washington.

Contrary to all the earlier fore-casts, the Congress is renewing the Reciprocal Trade Act, keystone of the administration's foreign commercial policy, by large majorities in both houses.

The threat to destroy this legislation by amendment—a threat aimed at the trade of the whole free world has been thoroughly beaten. In these troubled days the decision of the Congress is good news of the highest consequence.

A month or less ago the Washington correspondents were generally predicting that the Reciprocal Trade Act would be amended to death. Its opponents, the advocates of high tariffs, could not hope to destroy it outright but they contrived a series of amendments that would have made it practically ineffective.

As it stood, the act permitted the President to reduce American tariffs, within fixed limits, on his own authority, in return for reciprocal concessions by foreign markets.

Starting with President Franklin Roosevelt, this power has been used to scale down American tariffs drastically. The whole GATT structure of trade, from which Canada has benefited on a huge scale, rested largely on the United States tariff legislation.

The amendments proposed in the Congress would have crippled the power of the President by repealing his right to reject the reports of the Tariff Commission when it proposed a rise in tariffs. The famous Kerr formula would have made the Tariff Commission's rulings final unless the Congress, within ninety days, upheld the President's objection to them. In practical politics this simply meant that the Tariff Commission at any time could raise tariffs by using the "escape clause" of the GATT contracts with foreign nations.

Within the last month, however, the mind of the Congress was changed by three influences.

Mr. Eisenhower conducted a vigorous struggle to maintain the existing law and proved by unanswerable figures that a high level of foreign trade was essential to the American economy, quite apart from its political effect in the free world.

The Middle East crisis suddenly alerted the Congress to the United States' vital need of foreign friends, especially in the Commonwealth and Europe.

Finally, it dawned on the Congress that the western European nations were going ahead with their Common Market and it might well begin to raise its joint tariffs against United States if a new protectionist policy were launched in Washington.

In short, the Congressional fight over the Reciprocal Trade Act be-came, in the United States and throughout the world, a final test of American tariff policy. When this was realized, very late, the responsible leaders of both parties combined to repel the Kerr and other amendments.

Senator Johnson, the Democratic leader, and Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, worked in closest co-operation without a trace of partisanship. The economic side of foreign policy, like the political side, was kept out of party politics, even in the middle of a Congressional election campaign.

When the United States is widely criticized for many mistakes it should remember that in this clear test the American political system did not fail the free world. Only a few details have yet to be tidied up Washington by conferences between the two houses of the Congress. The basic decision against a general tariff rise is clear and over-

Frustrated Politicians

MR. JOHN A. STEVENSON, OTtawa correspondent of Toronto Saturday Night and a veteran journalist of highly independent mind, reports a growing sense of frustration in the Canadian capital. Things are not turning out—they seldom do—as the huge Conservative majority expected.

"Within a year," says Mr. Stevenson, "fortune has now replaced its smiles with frowns and our new ministers are struggling with a worse welter of difficult problems than any of their recent predecessors ever had to face." The recession is not lifting as easily or rapidly as the Government hoped. A partial crop failure on the prairies, for which the Government in no way responsible, has added a cruel and unexpected blow. The provincial governments are demanding more money from Ottawa but are unlikely to get it. The British Government is antagonized by our increased tariffs against British wool-The rising competition of the world market is worrying our export industries.

No wonder the Government feels a certain let-down from the euphoric days of last March. The newlyelected private members of Parliament, the huge Conservative majority, are feeling a let-down, too. Some of these political apprentices, says Mr. Stevenson, enjoyed a wonderful free ride to victory on Mr. Diefenbaker's spacious coat-tails and became infected "with the notion that they have become very important personages and are destined to climb to high pinnacles of greatness in our political life. For the first time in their lives they have secretaries, messengers and other mimons at their beck and call and find a wide variety of suppliants courting their favor . . . and civil servants showing them marked deference.

Mr. Stevenson, an old hand at Ottawa, finds some of these gentlemen displaying what Walt Whitman called "the endless effrontery of ally sending a representative to the elected persons." But there is more surface for a splashing leap into the air. elected persons." But there is more to it than that.

The average back-bencher, especially if he is a man of the better sort, feels frustrated because he has little to do. The Government, anxious to get the sessional program finished, does not encourage him to make speeches. The work of committees, which the Government uses to keep its supporters busy and to keep its supporters busy and happy, appears unattractive and dull.

As a result, some members "finding that time hangs heavy on their hands, are already disklusioned about the rewards of a political career and wish that they were back home in their normal groove of life.

Ferries for Local Yards

MAYOR SCURRAH HAS DOUBTless spoken for the whole community in urging the Provincial Government to build its new ferries in local yards.

It is proper, of course, that the government should call for tenders. It is not, however, essential that the lowest should be accepted. There are many other considerations to be kept in mind. The mayor has emphasized one of these in response to requests from local union spokesmen who point to the need for work in Victoria ship-yards if skilled men are to be reemployed. It is unnecessary to detail here the costs to the community and the provincial taxpayers caused by un-employment. The money that comes out of the citizens' pockets to help care for those unable to find work could be invested with greater profit to put them in gainful employment. That is a point of which Mr.

It's Real

You may think I'm making all this up. I can assure you it's all there, with dozens of other scenic delights thrown in for good measure. For verification,

In 1955, when the program for camping and picnic sites was getting well under way, the experts estimated that by 1958 there would be about 1.2 million visits to these facilities during the year. But the popularity of the parks has grown so spectacularly that the actual usage for 1958 will be around two and a half million visits—that is, one person spending one day at a picnic or camp

It was not until after the last war that development of the provincial parks began in earnest. A few camping sites were established in attractive locations. As soon as people heard of them they began to flock there on weekends and summer holidays.

Usually the camping or picnic site is chosen near some natural attraction such as a waterfall or a lake. A camping such as a waterfall or a lake. A camping unit consists of parking space for one car, a heavy bench-and-table, a campfire place with iron grill, a garbage can, and a flat area for a tent. With that, the camper is on his own.

All he has to do is leave the place clean and refrain from starting a forest fire. The picnic areas are much the same. confusion, the distrust and animosity, and overriding all, the ever-present fear of what the future has up its sleeve,

While the Artist Lives Canadian culture is claiming the head-lines, backed by one hundred millions of federal money.

Looking forward, it is noted that this money is for the promotion and develop-ment of the arts and to encourage the rising generation towards these things.

As Our Readers See It Looking backward, experience teaches us that the work of artists, even those who have "arrived," is largely ignored during their lifetime. They mostly come into fashion, if at all, after they are dead, by which time their work is dispersed. Emily Cam is a local example:

The logical line would be to acquire noted collections at the reasonable price likely to pertain while the artist is alive. Currently showing during August at the Hudson's Bay store in Victoria is the Mil-dred Valley Thornton collection of valuable Indian subjects, representing a life-time's work by this well-known artist and critic, which drew huge crowds for a month at the Vancouver store.

The opportunity now exists in this cen-tennial year for the B.C. government and public bodies to secure this collection in-tact and put it on permanent display as a wonderful tourist attraction at some such centre as Craigdarroch Castie. The cost today by direct negotiation would, by all accounts, represent a real investment for the future.

This is an example of how the authorities can profitably act now in accord with the federal fund for encouraging young artists. The idea of creating culture in Canada falls to the ground if artists are to go to their graves for others to reap financial reward.

Who will make the first move to secure this permanent record of the fast-disap-pearing old Indian culture? CLARENCE S. GOODE, FRSA.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Trouble for Mr. K?

THE Kremlinologists—the practitioners of the strange art of reading the signs in the Kremlin-are currently excited by two signs that seem to indicate some sort of trouble for Nikita Khrushchev. One of these signs is quite simple Khrushchev's fallen enemy, Vyacheslav Molotov, has been seen in Moscow by Western newspapermen. The return of Molotov from his exile in Ulan Bator is something of an event in itself. If it were not for still another sign, the Kremlinologists would still be inclined to argue that the Soviet Union's Ambassador to Outer Mongolia was only back in the capital on normal leave from his diplomatic post. there is also a second important sign that has to be accounted for.

This secon's sign is simply a story sent from Moscow by the able Associated Press correspondent, Roy Essoyan. The story described the move to put the Middle East crisis into the U.N. General Assembly as Khrushchev's "first serious diplomaic and public setback.'

It further noted that Western diplo matic observers regarded Khrushchev's abandonment of his scheme for a summi meeting within the U.N. as "a major retreat." Essoyan added that this retreat might be "a blow to the personal for-tunes of the dynamic Soviet leader."

Released Later

Two attempts were made, and eight hours passed, before the Soviet censor ship permitted Essoyan to send out the full text of this report. This was therefore not a report smuggled past the Soviet censorship; and it is precisely this aspect of the story which has so excited the Kremlinologists.

Since Stalin's accession to full power in the twenties, the Soviet censors have never permitted any foreign correspon dent to send out speculation about the declining fortunes of any Soviet political leader, unless the leader's decline of fortune was already a solid, accomplished fact Logically, this suggests that the decline in Khrushchev's glittering fortunes really is an accomplished fact. And this hint of trouble for Khrushchev is virtually being linked with the wholly unforeseen return to Moscow of Khrushchev's bitter enemy, Vyacheslav Molotov, whom Khrushchev so resoundingly defeated on his way to the top.

For these reasons, then, questions are being asked about the nature of Khrush chev's present position. There are no outward indications of a major political convulsion going on in Moscow, but at least a certain cloud of doubt has been cast on the formerly undoubted supremacy of Khrushchev, who so re-cently seemed to have eliminated every possible rival. Whatever has happened (if anything at all has happened) is plainly connected with the Peking meeting between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung, after which Khrushchev renounced the scheme for a summit meeting within the U.N. Security Council.

It is also thought to be significant that Khrushehev went to the meeting in Peking with no politically important companion except the Soviet Defence Minister, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky.

Two Points

Concerning Malinovsky, two points are well established. First, he was the beneficiary, and he was probably one of the instruments, of Khrushchev's rapid manoeuvre to destroy his former ally and backer, Marshal Georgi Zhukov. Second, Molotov, Malenkov and the other members of the "anti-party group" are known to have looked to this same Marshal Malinovsky to give them army support at the time of the famous June Plenum. They were then disappointed in this hope, and Khrushchev triumphed with Zhukov's active aid at this crucial meeting of the Communist Party Central Committee in June, 1956.

There used to be a link, therefore, be-tween Molotov and Malinovsky. Conse-quently, the Kremlinologists are asking whether Malinovsky, having served Khrushchev in the demotion of his rival Zhukov, may not now have joined with Molotov to clip Khrushchev's wings. Speculation centres upon Malinovsky for a rather simple reason. In all the great convulsions at the Kremlin since the death of Josef Stalin, only three organs have played a primary role—the Presidium, the army and the secret police.

After the fall of Lavrenti Beria, the secret police have not seemed to figure greatly. Since then, the primary roles have been played by the Presidium and the army—with the Central Committee of the Communist party of course called in when there was disagreement within the Devictions of the community party of the property and the providing of the community and the provided of the community and the community the Presidium, or between the army and the Presidium, as in June, 1956.

Disappearing Act

In the game of "nine little Indians hanging on the wall" that Khrushchev played with such success, almost all those with the stature to argue with him have been eliminated from the Presidium. The Communist theorist, Mikhail Suslov, and the durable old Anastas Mikoyan have been the only major figures left since Khrushchev took over the Soviet Pre-miership from the unhappy Marshal

But that still left the army, headed Malinovsky, as an independent centre of power. In addition, since Khrushchev did not imitate Stalin's decisive tactic of shooting his former rivals, the Soviet Union contained "too many people who have been left un-murdered" in the words of the greatest of the Kremlinologists, George F. Kennan. And the "un-mur-dered" rather conspicuously included

Molotov,
All the foregoing is typical Kremlin ology, of course, and there is nothing solid in it anywhere except the two signs—the reappearance of Molotov, and the censor's permission to Essoyan to pass a story that must surely have considerable significance. Maybe these odd signs will shortly be explained.

Furthermore, Khrushchev has used the method of mobilizing his own supporters by giving indications that he was in danger in Kremlin dramas of the past. No one but a fool would write off Khrushchev on the evidence as yet avail-

But until some other explanation of the signs is forthcoming it has to be presumed that they mean what they seem to mean—some sort of trouble, big or little, temporary or enduring, for Nikita Khrushehev.

Housewives Avoid Subway

the subway? I've just realized that in London they don't—unless forced to do so.

This was brought home to me by Britain's bus strike in which the public, although many of them are harassed and footsore, is in principle on the side of the strikers, feeling that around $30 a week is a very slim wage for a man with the responsibility of driving a bus through London's traffic

I was travelling by tube in the middle of the day, when normally passengers are sparsely distributed between the morning and evening rush hours. With Reyburn the buses off the road the tube I was in was naturally crowded and I sensed some-thing different about the crowd. Then I realized that the tube was full of housewiv with their shopping bags and their parcels and their chatter.

They looked like strangers down there, underground, changing the whole appearance of the part of London's transport system that caters almost exclusively in normal times to business and working-class people.

When you analyze it, of course, it makes sense. For the housewife on a shopping spree, the tube is a dead loss. Underground you can't, as in a bus, window shop en route;"
glimpsing the window displays of Selfridge, Dickins and Jones, Swan and Edgars, etc.,

hopping from shop to shop in a bus.

Housewives changing the look of one segment of London by invading the tubes emphasizes the fact that every part of this city, each street even, has its own special character and if somebody appears there who doesn't belong he or she looks out of place.

There are obvious examples—such as Sloane Street, which for some reason I've never been able to fathom seems to have attractive well-groomed women than any other street, and Threadneedle Street with its soberly dressed banking people.

A U.S. tourist, for instance, on Threadneedle Street sticks out like a sore thumb, where he would be part of the scenery around Buckingham Palace or Trafalgar Square.

But there is a far more subtle angle to this fact that every part of London has its own character—as the crooks of this town well know. The "corner men" especially know the sort of people who should be on any given not necessarily the well-known thoroughfares.

The corner men act as lookouts on streets where there is some gambling going on or an exhibition of "blue" movies, Uniformed cops aren't their main concern, since they can quickly warn their cohorts about them.

They're keeping their eyes peeled for men and women detectives in plain clothes and by studying the streets can spot at once any type who, like a housewife in the tube, isn't normally to be seen using a particular street

Shipping Companies, Union, Both Unhappy

OTTAWA (CP)-Sale of e ight deep-sea Canadian ships to Cuban interests has sparked a lively reaction among union and shipping representatives.

From Montreal and Ottawa, tart observations were provoked by the announcement Tuesday that the eight Canadian National Steamships vessels, strike bound 13 months, have been sold for 32,800,000 to Banco Cubano Commercio Exterior, Cuba's foreign trade bank. In Montreal, Hal Banks, Canadian head of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), said he will fight the sale "to the end." The ships have been out of action since July 4, 1957, as a result of an SIU-Called strike. Transport Minister Hees an-ounced the sale in the House

BLUNT COMMENT

Outside the House, a blunt comment came from W. J. Fisher, general manager of the Canadian Shipowners' Associa-tion. Mr. Fisher said Canadian shipping men are "quite amazed" that the ships have been sold to a "foreign government" to compete with Canadian enterprise. In Toronto, Morton W. Rashkis, president of a Toronto ship-ping firm, said his bids to buy eight CNR vessels received un-fair consideration from the federal government.

Mr. Rashkis said the Aura Shipping Company, a subsidiary of the Aurora Leasing Company, made three bids to buy the ves-sels. He admitted the latest, for $3,000,000, was mailed Tuesday and did not reach Transport Minister Hees in time.

Mr. Hees later told newspapermen he has never heard of the Aura Shipping Company and was "completely unfamiliar with any offer of any kind" from the company.

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Hees said today in the Commons the envelope containing a $3,000,000 offer for eight CNR vessels from a Toronto firm was post-marked in Toronto at 9.30 marked in Toronto at 9,39 p.m. Tuesday,

Mr. Hees announced sale of the vessels to a Cuban firm shortly after the Commons opened at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Mr. Hees added today that Commons members could draw their own conclusions about the repuirspaces of the

about the genuineness of the offer from Aura Shipping Limited, His statement was greeted by desk-thumping and loud laughter from the Progres-sive Conservative benches.

Mr. Rashkis showed reporters a file of correspondence he said he had with Mr. Hees J. R. MacMillan, vice-president of Canadian National Railways, parent company of the CNS, and M. R. Jack, executive assistant to Mr. Hees.

In November he said. Aura offered to buy the ships for $6,000,000 and lease them back to the government. Mr. Macto the government. Mr. Mac-Millan had replied they were not for sale.

May, Mr. Rashkis said. He said of the offer was sent to Hees.

In a letter he showed reporters, dated May 14 and over Mr. Hees' signature, Mr. Rashkis said he was informed his offer would be given representation ASKED SUBSIDY

Mr. Rashkis said that on July 7 he offered to buy the ships for $5,000,000 if the "government would grant a modest subsidy allowance during the first five years to re-establish the operating revenues of the ves-

He said Mr. Hees replied that he was consulting proper offi-cials about a subsidy and on July 23 wrote Mr. Rashkis "it was not the policy of the gov-ernment to subsidize" and the offer had been referred to E. A. Bromley of the CNS.

Mr. Rashkis said he wrote Mr. Hees Aug. 5 offering $5,000,000 if an annual subsidy were granted. He said his final offer of $3,000,000 with no subsidy was made Tuesday.

Mr. Heec said all considerations were taken into account in trying to keep the CNS fleet intact and under Canadian registry, but "it was found impos-sible to do so." The SIU strike resulted after the union asked for a 50-per-cent wage increase for its 300 mem bers. It lowered the demand to 20 per cent after the company offered 15 per cent, but the gap could not be bridged.

Today's in the Middle East

The Canadian soldier in the Middle East is proudly and efficiently doing a job of vital importance to the peace of the world. Canadian soldiers are members of the truce supervisory teams along the Arab-Israel border, the United Nations observer group in Lebanon and form a large part of the United Nation Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip and Sinai peninsula. In UNEF he is referred to by his comrades of other countries as "the real backbone of UNEF".

The soldier himself in our modern Canadian Army has the things that a man appreciates most-job security-good pay-a healthy outdoor life with variety and openings for advancement. His greatest satisfaction however comes from the sure knowledge that his is an important role in the growing responsibilities of Canada.

NORBERT NUTZWELL

Five years old, gave his mother quite a fright yesterday when he wandered away from his home; but after an absence of six hours he wound up, none the worse for wear, in the produce department of one of our markets. He was found perched on top of a watermelon display in the store by the owner who recognized the boy and called his mother.

"I got losted," little Norbert told the happy Mrs. Nutzwell after a tearful reunion among the fresh fruit and vegetables. "I walked and walked and walked and it was awful scary 'cause I couldn't find our yard any more."

"After a long, long time," the tot continued, "I saw this Low Cost store 'n' I remembered what Mommie always said. She said the people who owned it was awful nice 'cause they always had such good watermelons. 'N' I knowed if they was nice they would call Mommie if they saw I was losted so I climbed on top of the watermelons to show them and they did." Our store owner was all smiles after little Norbert and his mother were reunited. "It just goes to show you," he said, "what an impression our watermelons make on folks. They're so good they always rember where they got them."

U.S. Sends Second Sub JAPAN PLANE Under Polar Ice Pack

United States staked a new Skate's skipper. The navy said Skate is expected to return to lofficers, 87 enlisted men and loff today after a second atomic submarine crosed under the North Pole

The submarine Skate reached the pole Monday morning—just six days after her older sister, the Nautilus, emerged from a 1,830-mile trip across the polar cap. The Nautilus arrived Tuesday in Portland, England.

The bare announcement Tues-day night said the Skate surfaced in an ice field some 40 miles from the north pole to radio word of the trip. The navy said the Skate, the third U.S. atomic sub built, is contin-uing under-ice explorations.

The Skate's path to the pole was just the opposite from the Nautilus, which began its journey from the Pacific. The 265-foot long Skate left New London, Conn., July 30 and entered from the Atlantic.

Efforts of aircraft like one seen in Malahat view of Goldstream fire (top) proved worthless against deep-seated blaze forging steadily into the watershed. Smoke could be seen for miles billowing straight up, then drifting to the north on Tuesday afternoon, and

It is not clear whether they wish to get into some other line of work, or simply quit working.

In either case, I am ready to defend to the death the right of the transportation companies to stop transportation-

Is this, or is this not, a free country? At this stage I must explain I have no actual facts upon which to base my assumption that the transportation companies wish to get out of the transportation business.

All I know is what the man on the street tells me, and the man on the street says B.C. Coast Steamships appears willing to stop steamshipping (no reasonable offers refused) and the B.C. Electric bus service appears equally willing to stop bussing (all reasonable offers considered.)

If these opinions of the man on the street be true, let us not rear back and view with alarm.

Let us, on the other hand, count our blessings, and see how non-transportationing transportation companies would fit into the scheme of things, circa, 1958. My personal opinion is, they would fit in very well.

The elimination of the transportation companies from the field of transportation would give a much-needed lift to one of the greatest factors of this day and age. Namely, the do-it-yourself movement.

With no transportation companie

In a short time I am sure an enterprising do-it-yourselfer would discover that, by placing one foot ahead of the other foot, and then placing the other foot ahead of the one foot, he could achieve walking. And it is quite possible other do-it-yourselfers, probably thousands of them, would find walking a most adequate means of getting from here to there, not to mention there

This, I admit, is strictly a dry-land method of do-it-your-

It is likely the do-it-yourselfer who wishes to cross the sea would have to invent something more revolutionary than picking up and putting down his feet. Possibly a crude type of craft, propelled by paddles, might be devised.

In any event, I am confident the transportation companies

Jack Klugman Stars in Kraft Theatre Mystery 'Night Cry' at 9

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

WELL DONE-Both Seattle channels, 4 and 5, can take a low bow for their excellent coverage of the Gold Cup hydroplane classic on Lake Washington, Sunday. It will be a long time before the viewers forget the excitement garnered from the thrills and the spills,

At our house it so happened that we were receiving best picture from KOMO-TV. But when Bill Muncey and his Miss Thriftway smashed into the Coast Guard cutter we hurriedly dialed in KING-TV's Channel 5. NOBODY UNDERSELLS
US ON PLYWOODS

It may well have been just the luck of the game bu whereas the Channel 4 crew seemed to be mired down in the confusion of the near-tragedy, Channel 5 camera were right on top of the incident. It was a memorable watching the cutter sink below the waters of the NJ., in 1937 when 36 perished in the explosion and en-suing fire. Each time the cameras cover events of importance there is always the law of averages in motion that something untoward, either good or bad, will take place.

ONE OF THE very nice things accruing to TV coverage, of course, was the ability of Canadians to follow Princess Margaret's tour across our country, not the least exciting being her departure from Shearwater Monday night. However, I must confess I got a wee chuckle from the commentator. He was so English of tone that if one didn't know the story one would swear that Margaret was leaving England for Canada. However, con-sidering the darkness of the night and inclement weather, he did a sound job of reporting.

has become nothing more nor less than a platform for Janet Blair, Edie Adams and John Raitt to air their song stylings. Even Dorothy Kirsten, last outing, was unable to provide the required pop, crackle and snap to the show. Maybe she should have fallen from the bench However, next Sunday that dancing man Eddie Foy, Jr. should be back. He, usually, makes all the difference Why can't they make him a regular?

Ed Sullivan's Navy Show was good but, with all due pect to the boys in blue, I don't think they can match talents with the entertainers from Uncle Sam's army who are in a nifty little class of their own.

Forest service officers had 70 men and the bulldozers working on the big fire Tuesday night and had hoped to bring it under control this morning.

A railway tank car, aircraft, waterboard, railway and power line employees, volunteers and Langford firemen joined in the

Winds fanned it along until darkness, but due to heavy undergrowth the fire continued creeping to about double its size through the night.

A call for 40 volunteer fallers buckers with their own equipment was made by the forest service this morning.

They were to be used in cleanup at the lower end of the fire and to clear heavier timber from the path of bulldozers. which still had a half mile of fire break to complete at 10.30 a.m.

TWO-MILE FRONT

This move was designed to head off the fire and kill it de-cisively unless the wind in-creased. The front was to be 100 feet wide and two miles long.

Seven "cats" were working on the south side of the fire and two were approaching from the north side, intending to meet at Niagara Canyon.

Lower down the canyon the fire jumped Niagara Creek at Early in the afternoon it burned over a B.C. Electric power transmission line which had previously been killed to avoid danger to firefighters.

Power was being carried by an alternative route.

The line carrying the city's main source of power was not in apparent danger.

Shipping Companies, Union, Both Unhappy

OTTAWA (CP)—Sale of eight deep-sea Canadian ships to Cuban interests has sparked a lively reaction among union and shipping representatives.

From Montreal and Ottawa art observations were provoked by the announcement Tuesday hat the eight Canadian National Steamships vessels, strike-bound 13 months, have been sold for $2,800,000 to Banco Cubano del Commercio Exterior, Cuba's foreign trade bank.

In Montreal, Hal Banks, Canadian head of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC), said he will fight the sale "to the end." The ships have been out of action since July 4, 1957, as a result of an SIU-Called strike. Transport Minister Hees an-ounced the sale in the House

BLUNT COMMENT

Outside the House, a blunt comment came from W. J. Fisher, general manager of the Canadian Shipowners' Associa-tion. Mr. Fisher said Canadian shipping men are "quite amazed" that the ships have been sold to a "foreign govern-ment" to compete with Canadian enterprise.

In Toronto, Morton W. Rashkis, president of a Toronto ship-ping firm, said his bids to buy eight CNR vessels received un-fair consideration from the federal government.

Mr. Rashkis said the Aura Shipping Company, a subsidiary of the Aurora Leasing Company, made three bids to buy the ves-sels. He admitted the latest, for $3,000,000, was mailed Tuesday and did not reach Transport Minister Hees in time. Mr. Hees later told newspapermen he has never heard of the Aura Shipping Company and was "completely unfamiliar with any offer of any kind" from the company,

OTTAWA (CP)-Transport Minister Hees said today in the Commons the envelope containing a $3,000,000 offer for eight CNR vessels from a Toronto firm was post-marked in Toronto at 9.30 p.m. Tuesday. Mr. Hees announced sale of the vessels to a Cuban firm shortly after the Commons opened at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Mr. Hees added today that Commons members could draw their own conclusions about the genuineness of the offer from Aura Shipping Limited.
His statement was greeted by desk-thumping and loud laughter from the Progressive Conservative benches.

Mr. Rashkis showed reporters Mr. Rashkis snowed reporters a file of correspondence he said he had with Mr. Hees J. R. MacMillan, vice-president of Canadian National Railways, parent company of the CNS, and M. R. Jack, executive assistant to Mr. Hees and M. R. Jack, executive assistant to Mr. Hees.

In November, he said, Aura offeres to buy the ships for $6,000,000 and lease them back to the government. Mr. Mac-Millan had replied they were not for sale.

Aura made a second offer in Aura made a second offer in May, Mr. Rashkis said. He said a copy of the offer was sent to Mr. Hees. In a letter he showed reporters, dated May 14 and over Mr. Hees' signature, Mr. Rashkis said he was informed his offer would be given representation. ASKED SUBSIDY

Mr. Rashkis said that on July 7 he offered to buy the ships for $5,000,000 if the "government would grant a modest sub sidy allowance during the first five years to re-establish the operating revenues of the ves-

He said Mr. Hees replied that he was consulting proper officials about a subsidy and on July 23 wrote Mr. Rashkis "it was not the policy of the gov-ernment to subsidize" and the offer had been referred to E.A. Bromley of the CNS.

Mr. Rashkis said he wrote Mr.

Hees Aug. 5 offering $5,000,000 if an annual subsidy were granted. He said his final offer of $3,000,000 with no subsidy was made Tuesday.

Mr. Heer said all considera-tions were taken into account in trying to keep the CNS fleet intact and under Canadian registry, but "it was found impos-sible to do so."

The SIU strike resulted after the union asked for a 50-per-cent wage increase for its 300 members. It lowered the demand to 20 per cent after the company offered 15 per cent, but the gap could not be bridged.
